

Ram the Iceberg!
How to Truly Survive When *Your Shit Hits the Fan!
by David Chu
(escapetopatagonia.com)

*When the sun rises
I get up to play
When the sun sets
I lie down to dream
I carry buckets of water from a mountain stream
I garden the covered earth growing my nourishment
I share creation
flowing in the Tao
Buddhas can do no more
I shall do no less*

This article, inspired by a chat I had with a waffle maker, is dedicated to a dear amigo who clearly sees the impending tragedy and horror just ahead. But he cannot extricate himself from the status quo lifestyle he currently enjoys, viz., a very comfortable "first-world" living standard, nor can he escape the rat race of running a non-essential business which temporarily sustains his current well-being.

This article is also dedicated to the many courageous silent readers and the few extremely talented and wise commentators and writers on the news/analysis blog called Darkmoon.me (www.darkmoon.me). This particular website is probably one of the last refuges of critical independent thinking and truthful analysis on the world wide web.

Ram the iceberg! is NOT your typical how-to-survive-this-or-that article which boils the solution down to a series of steps to follow: step one, do this; step two, do that; etc. Nor is it simply about prevention or lowering the standard of living.

This article is about helping you clear up the mental fog and emotional hysteria surrounding your end-of-the-world scenario, and clearly see what is the "impending tragedy and horror just ahead" for you and your family. And it is about helping you gradually get to your survival comfort state (which I will explain later on in this article) by ramming your iceberg first.

Ram the iceberg! is about a warrior's mindset and un/conventional approaches to survival.

Full Steam Ahead!

Almost everyone in the West has watched James Cameron's blockbuster movie Titanic. For some inexplicable reason, this singular passenger ship tragedy is so ingrained in the Western psyche. Why? Those who frequent Darkmoon.me know there is another passenger ship sinking that is much more tragic and way more horrific than the sinking of the R.M.S. Titanic which killed 1,517 men, women, and children.

The excellent film Hellstorm (www.hellstormdocumentary.com/watch/) and the book by the same name (amzn.to/1BmAYLn) record this most inhumane War Crime: the deliberate and unprovoked sinking of the German passenger ship the Wilhelm Gustloff and the genocide of some 7,000 men, women, and children on board, mainly civilians fleeing the advancing Soviet hordes, by an All-Lies submarine during the end of World War Two.

In my self-published book, "NO Foreclosures: Guerrilla Principles to Save Your Family and Stick It to the Banks!", which is outdated now but available online for free (bit.ly/Zcl1Kw), there is a chapter titled, "Five Cardinal Lessons from the Titanic". One of the cardinal lessons is what I called "Ram the Iceberg!".

Sometimes the best solution to tackle a problem is literally to tackle it head on. The Author, being an engineer, has an untested theory that the Titanic, once it scraped the iceberg and started to take on water, should have turned around and gently rammed the iceberg head on!

Now, this is probably a crazy and unpractical idea from an engineering point of view, but if nothing else it illustrates the principle of buying more time at all costs.

Imagine this if you will: if the Titanic could use the iceberg as a pier or platform to keep the bow or front end of the ship afloat, while she keeps her engines going (in actuality her engines failed as they became submerged in water), literally pushing on the iceberg to stay afloat; she would not have taken on so much water which caused her engines to die out and then ultimately caused the waterlogged ship to sink.

This guerrilla tactic could have bought the Titanic more time to stay afloat. The steam-liner Carpathia, the nearest ship that was 58 miles away, took four hours and twenty minutes to reach the Titanic—one hour and forty minutes too late! If the Titanic could have stayed afloat during the length of time that it took the Carpathia to come to her rescue, many if not all of her passengers would have been saved.

To clear up the mental fog and emotional hysteria in this dire situation, you need to ask yourself this question:

What is the REAL problem here?

For the R.M.S. Titanic, the real problem is twofold:

- How can the damaged ship stay afloat in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean?
- How can you as a passenger or crew member stay above the freezing waters of the ocean if the ship sinks?

Once you know what is the real problem and, here is a crucial point, not what everyone else thinks is the problem, then you can attack it head on, using unconventional and conventional approaches.

One method of discovering what is your real problem or your "shit hits the fan" scenario is to connect to your Innernet. Ask God directly.

We may not have an Internet connection at home for various reasons, but we all have a free Innernet connection, our direct and innate link to God and to one another at inner levels. For most people that Innernet connection is very weak, the download speed very slow, and the answers inaudible. But with practice that Innernet connection to God becomes stronger, faster, and clearer.

Below are three scenarios to help you practice your Innernet connectivity and this ram the iceberg! strategy for survival!

The CIA/NSA/IPHONE/SAMSUNG/TOASTER Is Spying On Me! Scenario

Oh, my God! The CIA is spying on me!

Recent public disclosure of massive CIA spying via Wikileaks' "Vault 7" is FAKE NEWS.

The purposeful and timed release of this much vaunted information dump, especially in the so-called alternative media, serves the same purpose as what Tom Clancy novels do for the mainstream media.

The Cancer In America is NOT spying on 300 million Yankees. They can't even spy on 30,000. Spying connotes specific and directed actions taken against specific targets of interest. The CIA and NSA and FBI are not interested in John Doe. What they are interested in and are doing is vacuuming up ALL digital information, much like what their civilian counterparts are doing, e.g., Facebook ("book of faces"), Gmail ("government mail"), Skype, Twitter, etc. The only difference is that the latter is doing the data vacuuming with the active consent of their users.

The CIA is also not remotely interested in killing John Doe, let alone doing so via smart cars or smart toasters! When the Cancer In America wants to liquidate someone, they do so with one of their numerous biological weapons, usually one that causes cancer. For example, think about the late Hugo Chavez who died of cancer at a very young age and the numerous socialist South American presidents who have contracted cancer recently.

Or they just kill their victims with remote drones. Maybe one day soon they will do so with lasers from killer satellites.

What this latest Wikileaks dump serves is to inoculate the alternative news crowd into thinking and believing this: "Ah ha! Now, it's confirmed! The CIA is spying on me just as I had suspected! I am not a conspiracy theorist any more! Now I can go back to watching my favorite unreality TV show ("Who wants to be President?") and drinking my favorite Bud Light beer (for those who listen to Rush Limbaugh) or my Starbucks cappuccino decaf (for those who listen to National Public Radio)!"

Meanwhile the real dirty and horrific business of the CIA goes unnoticed and unthought of by those who are into alternative news. Or mainstream news.

Jon Ronson in his book, "The Men Who Stare at Goats," has a fascinating and seminal quote that illuminates what is the real purpose of geopolitical fiction and its corollary counterpart, fake news via Wikileaks:

*People have been so brainwashed by fiction, so brainwashed by the Tom Clancy thing, they think, 'We know this stuff. We know the CIA does this [murdering American citizens].' Actually, we know nothing of this [CIA killing of Frank Olson]. There's no case of this, and all this fictional stuff is like an immunization against reality. It makes people think they know things that they don't know and it enables them to have a kind of superficial quasi-sophistication and cynicism which is just a thin layer beyond which they're not cynical at all.

Now that you know what you didn't know before about this particular fake news, you can simply forget about it. There is nothing you can do about it. Delete this "CIA is spying on me" meme from your radar.

However, if you are a paranoid person or a real "conspiracy theory" person and cannot get any sleep because of this issue, the ram the iceberg! approach is simple:

- Stop using ALL smart phones, small cars, and smart sex toys!
- Use regular mail via the postal office as opposed to electronic mail (email).
- Talk to your family members and friends in person!

Once you have settled down into your survival comfort state, somewhere between an information Luddite and where you are currently with your iPhones, Samsung smart TVs, and smart cars, then you can go on with your life.

The Cancer Scenario

Imagine, if you will, a pristine refuge in Patagonia. You live on a beautiful crystal clear mountain lake almost all your life. The air is pure, save for a few contrails that appear once in a blue moon. Your potable water is about the purest you can buy, except in your case it's free and it's right there in your backyard. Your neighborhood, until a few years ago, consists only of your brother and your sister who visits her summer casa for asados (Argentine barbecues) during the warm seasons. Even now there are only 4 families living within a 10-km distance.

Yet at the age of 70, you die of stomach cancer. Hard to believe, no? Well, I lived for about 1 year as a vecino next to this lady Victoria who lived and died just as I described above.

Why did she get cancer living in such a pristine environment? Well, she bought and ate the same shit as everyone else! The supermarkets in Argentina sell pretty much the same packaged products as those in New York, London or Buenos Aires. Victoria may not have dined out at first-class restaurants, but she ate the same GMO-shit and packaged foods found in supermarkets everywhere.

Almost everyone I know either has cancer or knows someone who has cancer. This is the most common nightmare scenario for the average person living near a McDonald's near you! People are terrified of being told by their allopathic doctors that they have cancer and they are terribly ashamed when their loved ones get it.

Cancer is a pleomorphic organism that always exists in the human body.

There are two monumental truths in the above statement. Read it again. Cancer can change from one form or shape to another, and it is always present in your body.

Cancer can exist as a spore, bacterium, fungus, or virus in your body. It can change from a spore to a bacterium, or a bacterium to a virus, and then back again mainly depending on the pH or acid/alkaline balance in your bloodstream. Think of your bloodstream as a petri dish like the ones you experimented with in Chemistry 101.

At first, the [cancer] germ in culture was barely visible as tiny round coccal forms. Later, these cocci might morph into rod-shaped bacteria, which could connect together to form filamentous chains resembling a fungus. Small cocci could also enlarge into yeast-like and fungal-like spore forms. (Dr. Alan Cantwell, M.D.)

How do we know this? One of the most significant figures who ever lived, to borrow a phrase that John F. Kennedy once used for another man, is Dr. Royal Raymond Rife. In the late 1920's and early 1930's, Dr. Rife was able to clinically prove and document the pleomorphic nature of the cancer virus. This is one of the greatest discoveries in history.

An even greater one was that the cancer virus which Dr. Rife called the BX virus has a very specific natural resonant frequency. If enough energy is beamed at the cancer virus using that very specific vibrational frequency, Dr. Rife could kill the cancer virus, literally exploding it under his very special Rife Microscope.

Normally, your immune system and bloodstream pH keep cancer in check, meaning that cancer coexists in your body in a benign state. However, when your immune system is compromised and/or when your bloodstream is too acidic, cancer can morph into its malignant form as a virus. When the growth of the cancer virus becomes overwhelming in your body, this is the condition in which your allopathic doctor pronounces that you have cancer.

Now, imagine cancer as your iceberg dead ahead!

How will you ram this iceberg? Do you seek medical counsel from that same allopathic doctor whose notepad is a drug prescription pad? This conventional path only leads to chemotherapy, pharmaceutical drugs, radiation, and/or surgery. The average survival rate of this 99% approach is about 5% after 5 years. You have the same chance of survival if you just don't do anything (maybe better chance if you prayed or chanted a few mantras!).

A ram the iceberg! approach to deal with cancer might include the following un/orthodox actions (since this article is not about curing cancer per se, I will provide some concrete suggestions that you may research online for more information):

- Eliminate ALL GMO-products from your diet now! Cut down red meat consumption, most especially pork. Eliminate refined sugar and all supermarket packaged "foods" and avoid eating out at all restaurants, "first-class" or no class.
- Boost your immune system by detoxing and cleaning out your liver now! The liver is the paramount organ in detoxing the human body and in improving the immune system. Two very effective ways are Essiac Tea and the Liver-Gallbladder Flush using Phosfood Liquid.
- Alkalize your bloodstream now! Make your acidic body more alkaline, back to the ideal pH of around 7.3. The best book on this subject is "Alkalize or Die" by Theodore A. Baroody.

- Kill the cancer virus now! MMS (or Miracle Mineral Supplement) and the Rife Machine (or the Rife Frequency Generator) are two excellent tools for destroying the cancer virus and other pathogenic viruses and bacteria.
- Buy yourself a copy of the "Politics in Healing" by Daniel Haley or "The Cancer Cure That Worked!" by Barry Lynes. Read it now!

Whatever you do, do it now. Don't wait until you find out you have cancer. That's the sheeple approach and their mentality is to trust the high priests of pharmaceutical medicine to cure them. As if that is even remotely possible!

Then you can back off if need be and settle in your survival comfort state, somewhere between where you are now and these and other ram the iceberg! approaches towards fighting cancer.

My Shit Hits the Fan Scenario!

The worst case nightmare scenario for me has always been nuclear war. Even when I was 5 years old living in Shanghai, this was the one thing I feared the most. Now that I am a bit older, I know global nuclear war is a mathematical certainty:

World War Three (WW3) is driven by the exponential growth of massive Jewish ponzi schemes aka credits and debts concocted in the United States: bit.ly/1IEfOq2 and nyp.st/2nYv43o.

No, this planet is NOT going to end because of global nuclear war. Atomic bombs including the fearsome hydrogen bombs are just micro farts to Mother Earth! Nuclear winter is about as real as global warming, the difference being Al Gore and company haven't figured out a way to securitize nuclear winter on the Chicago Climate Exchange yet.

Millions of people, probably billions, are going to die, mainly due to starvation. Most people rely on factory farming and supermarkets for their food supply. This Achilles heel is very vulnerable for the "first-world" nations.

The United States will be the ground zero for WW3. Say adios to the Black House and the Pentagram. Major cities with important military bases like San Diego and Seattle will be wiped out. Of course, the vital organ centers like Washington, D.C., Chicago, Los Angeles, and New York City will be decapitated and sent back to the prehistorical ages. And hundreds of millions of Yankees will die of starvation and also radiation.

Russia should do fine as her territories are vast and she has deployed S-400 and S-500 anti-ballistic missiles (ABMs) to defend her major cities and crucial military sites. The Yankees will try to shoot down incoming Russian (and Chinese) intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) using their "hit the bullet with a bullet" approach, while the Russians will shoot down incoming Yankee ICBMs using nuclear-tipped ABMs like the famous Atari video game Missile Command from the 1980's. Guess who is going to win that game?

China is currently vulnerable as she does not have an effective ABM system like the S-400 or S-500 in place and fully operational. The other problem is the shear number of her population which during a nuclear war scenario could result in mass hysteria and panics. The Chinese people are not emotionally and mentally prepared for WW3. They are blindly focused on doing business and making money.

My ram the iceberg! strategy towards WW3 is threefold.

Firstly, get the hell out of Dodge City! And live as far away as practically possible from all the likely ground zeros of WW3 now!

I lived and worked in the United States for some 20 years, and left in August 2008 when I realized that the US is the principal instrument of Evil and Terror on planet Earth. Their much touted "exceptionalism" comes from being exceptional at killing and maiming people outside the US, and in destroying other nation's infrastructures.

The karma or sin of killing and maiming literally hundreds of millions of innocent men, women and children from the air, from their heinous war atrocities committed during WW2 and henceforth, will return back to this evil nation and its inhabitants. That karma or sin will return in the form of thermonuclear bombs dropping from the sky. As they say, ignorance of the law is no excuse. Neither is the willful ignoring of the heinous war crimes against humanity by its inhabitants.

For me, leaving the US for Argentina was the easy part. Just get on an airplane and go. I must admit that I left a bit early, but I rather be 10 years too early than 10 minutes too late.

Secondly, live a simple lifestyle without most of the modern conveniences now!

It took me almost 10 years to find and buy my dream home in Patagonia, Argentina near where Butch Cassidy, Sundance Kidd, and Etta Place once lived.

I live in a small valley with its own creek, sheltered from the fierce winds that Patagonia is unfortunately known for (unfortunate because the winds here are not that fierce). With a friend, I built a small cabin that currently has no electricity, no running water, and no toilet! My only modern house convenience is a full size propane stove.

Without electricity, I following the rising and setting of the sun each day. It's a bit cold at night and in the mornings. But I have re-discovered my body's natural rhythms, both in terms of the day and night cycles, and the hot and cold variations. I carry buckets of water from a nearby mountain stream for all my water needs. This is probably the best water you can encounter besides living next to a Himalayan or Andes glacier-melt stream. Without a toilet, I pee wherever I want! Think about all that flushing water that I am not wasting.

My reality TV consists of watching, more like cheering on, my 3 months old baby chicks climbing a big 30 year old ñires tree at sunset. They can outperform the best acrobats in the world, as each one skillfully navigates among a labyrinth of tree limbs and ornery roosters and pecking hens to get next to their mama. If they fall, they can injure themselves and possibly die as one did. This is real life drama!

I love it!

Thirdly, grow as much food as possible now!

With a partner, we are growing as much food as we can. We are using the "Back to Eden" method of wood chips and augmenting it with our own Argentinean method that I call "camposting" or "campfire composting".

My camposting method involves placing massive compost materials around fruit trees and nut trees like you are building a campfire, right up to the tree trunk. These camposts can be as high as 1 meter and their diameters as large as 2 meters, depending on the age and trunk size of the tree. Campost materials can be almost anything organic. I find the cones, needles, leaves, and broken branches of pine trees to be one of the best materials to use. And you don't need a wood chipper to chip the pine camposts.

Just do it!

If I get bored or tired of this simple life, I can always add a few more modern conveniences. Like solar power and a pumped water system.

But the fundamental key is that I know I enjoy living a simple life now. I will not be forced into surviving a basic life, kicking and screaming, when WW3 occurs and the electricity goes out along with all the other modern conveniences that we take for granted.

~ ~ ~

My dear amigo, I do not pretend to know how to walk in your moccasins. But I do see the deliberate tragedy and horror unfolding just ahead. It will make the sinking of the Wilhelm Gustloff and the rape and murder of 20 million Germans during and after World War Two seem tame by comparison. So, I shall ram my iceberg now!

You know it too.

Therefore, ram your iceberg!

Now.

---

This Article "Ram the Iceberg!" is a PDF document and can be found at EscapeHolocaust.com.

David Chu is a professional mechanical engineer and writer who has worked and lived throughout the United States for some 20 years. He now lives in northern Patagonia, Argentina with his dogs, chickens, and ducks. And he helps good people interested in relocating to Argentina via his boutique company EscapetoPatagonia.com.